

2013 10 31 Thursday Spooky Matter Ghost Stories

AB: “And when you think about it, hauntings certainly would not be exclusive to any one area – they would be all over the world ... and guess what? They are! Ghost stories are as famous in Japan and Germany and every other country in the world as they are here ... In other words, ghosts are universal.”

AB: “It is my firm belief that the recently dead do not depart right away. They are still there for a while, not a long time ... perhaps days, perhaps hours, perhaps days – but I firmly believe that they do stick around.”

AB: “Discussion of these things invites things to you that you might not want ... just a word or warning, [not] even through the TV, Ouija boards, seances ... Not good.”

AB: “I wonder how many [recently deceased people] get the opportunity to say good-bye to anybody [once they pass]? ... Fascinating, absolutely fascinating.”

AB: “Ghosts do things repetitively ... Some kind of repetitive cycle.”
